KIMOLOS ISLAND

The area of Kimolos island is 36 km² and the length of the coasts is 38 km with a lot of bays, sandy and rocky beaches and numerous sea caves. Its shape is an almost regular pentagon and the terrain is hilly with highest summit Paliokastro (365 m).

It has approximately 600 permanent residents, most of which live at Chorio where there is no great central square but several smaller ones like: Theoskepasti, Giorgila (with a well), Kambos (where the Children's Playground is), while, the largest one, of the School, has beautiful view and is ideal for someone to watch the full moon of August rising.

Smaller settlements that are inhabited mainly in the summer, while in the winter few of them have residents: Psathi (port), Goupa, Kara, Prassa, Aliko, Bonatsa and Dekas. Opposite the church of Odigitria there is the new Archaeological Museum and in the Castle the Folklore Museum.

To learn more about the island you can visit the Archaeological, Folklore and Maritime museums.

With the sea taxi you can tour the island and enjoy the beautiful beaches of the north side of the island.

If you enjoy trekking there are a couple of walking routes that take you to every corner of the island.

The Venetians and the Franks called the island "Arzantiera", that is Silvery, for the grey-white rocks they saw as they approached the island.

In contrast with most of the islands of Cyclades and consist mainly of transformed rocks, Kimolos is for the largest part the product of intense volcano activity as it lies on the outer zone of the volcanic arc of the Aegean and the traces of volcanic activity are visible all over the island: hot springs and unusual geological formations that create sites of extraordinary beauty.

THE WINDMILL KIMOLOS

The Windmill Kimolos Hotel dates from 1852 and remains one of the few traditionally restored windmills in Greece today. It has been recently renovated to create an elegant five-room hotel with modern amenities and facilities. The exceptional location, classic design and intimate scale, all combine to create a rare blend of exclusive, attentive service, against the stunning Aegean Sea backdrop.

Strogilo (30 m²) is arranged as a duplex on the ground and first floor. It offers a built-in double bed and one en-suite bathroom with shower on the ground floor, plus a separate bedroom with a queen-size bed on the upper floor. The two levels are connected by an internal stone staircase in an open plan space. Each room has its own entrance. The private large terrace on the first floor provides wonderful sea views.

Apagio (28 m²) comprises a bedroom with a built-in double bed and a living room with two sofas which can be turned into single beds. It has a bathroom with shower. While lying on the built-in sofas on the terrace you can also enjoy views of the port and the island of Poliegos.

Agnantio (19 m²) is located on the second floor and features a bedroom with a queen-size bed and an en-suite bathroom with shower. Its charming balcony, perched at the top of the mill tower, provides some of the hotel's best sea views.

Aloni (15 m²) features a bedroom with a built-in double bed and en-suite bathroom with shower. Its covered terrace with built-in benches provides the ultimate relaxing experience with wonderful sea views.

Apomero (20 m²) is located on the west side of the Windmill with its terrace offering views of the nearby village. It features a bedroom with a built-in double bed and en-suite bathroom with shower.

At the Kimolos Breeze you can savor local treats for breakfast or afternoon tea and other light snacks. After dusk, the moonlight casts its silver glow on the neighboring island of Poliegos that lies past the hypnotizing shimmers of the Aegean Sea. With a drink or a tasteful cocktail this lovely Café & Bar offers the ideal time for relaxation and reflection as the magical views are accompanied by soft music!

THE ELEPHANT BEACH HOUSE

The Elephant Beach House, is a two-person beach house, situated in the picturesque and colourful area of Sirmata Goupa on the secluded island of Kimolos in the Cyclades Islands.

The property is just one km from Psathi, Kimolos's charming port on the southeastern coast of the island. The beach takes its name from the distinctive elephant-shaped rock nearby.

The residence is a former "sirma" – a small cave-like dwelling dug into soft rock that was originally used to protect fishing boats from winter winds. The Elephant Beach House is the first sirma in the area to be transformed into a holiday residence. Another classic example of authentic Greek hospitality from Aria Hotels.
